What Is Songbird (SGB)?

Songbird (SGB) is the canary network for Flare, which is developing a stake- and mining-free smart contract. For Flare, you can choose between two main varieties. By use of the FTSO, they feed dispersed data into Flare's infrastructure (Flare Time Series Oracles). Tokens built on top of the F-Asset protocol are used to represent assets in the blockchains of different cryptocurrencies.

A more long-term goal can be found in Songbird as well. Eventually, after Flare has been released, the mainnet will undergo testing of new features and updates. The Canary Network may benefit from this, becoming more cutting-edge, while the Flare Network provides greater reliability.

There's a long-term goal to Songbird (SGB), too. After Flare is published, it will be used to assess the state of the mainnet and any impending improvements. A more advanced Canary system and a more trustworthy Flare system might result from this.

Songbird was created with a fixed maximum supply and a dynamically rising price. Songbird digital coins are a good long-term investment because of their stable supply.
