What is BABB (BAX)?

London-based Babb is a cutting-edge blockchain platform for the financial sector. Its primary objective is to make banking services available to the unbanked and under-banked. Its stated goal is to become a decentralized banking platform that utilizes blockchain and AI in addition to other biometric technologies to improve users' ability to transact with one another.

Their target market consists of the roughly 2 billion people worldwide who do not use banks or have bank accounts. Most consumers don't think traditional banking is a good option because banks don't have a way to meet their specific financial needs. With its cutting-edge technology, Babb is able to provide financial services that eliminate the need for banks.

Tokenizing fiat/physical currency will be possible with Babb's forthcoming distributed application-based platform. The Babb App and its associated services accept both these tokens and the BAX currencies. As time goes on and they expand their capabilities, they will be able to provide their services to every central bank on the planet. When it comes to making money, the Babb platform's Baxx component is where it's at.
