What is Baby Doge Coin?

BABYDOGE is a dog-themed cryptocurrency built on crypto exchange Binance's layer-1 blockchain network BNB Chain. The token launched in June 2021 and is considered a meme coin, alongside other dog-themed cryptocurrencies such as dogecoin (DOGE) and shiba inu (SHIB).

Baby Doge's native token protocol features three basic functions: reflection, liquidity pool acquisition and burn. Each trade incurs a 10% transaction fee, which is split in two ways:

- 5% is distributed automatically to token holders as a reward.
- 5% is split, with half sold into Binance Coin (BNB) and the other half added to the BABYDOGE/BNB liquidity pair on the PancakeSwap decentralised exchange (DEX). The majority of the initial liquidity pool tokens are locked and some burned.

According to its website, BABYDOGE token is designed to be a deflationary token. A dead wallet holds more than 45% of its supply, with more coins being burned with each on-chain transaction. The token was "originally created as a meme joke with 420 quadrillion supply", its website said.

Baby Doge features a decentralised exchange called Baby Doge Swap and non-fungible tokens (NFT) called BabyDogeNFT. The project also has a designated charity wallet that receives redistributions to be donated to its animal welfare charity partners.

The project has 21 validators and its on-chain governance is based on proof-of-staked authority consensus, according to its website.

BABYDOGE was ranked the 230th largest cryptocurrency with a market capitalisation of $193 million, as of 20 July. According to CoinMarketCap, BABYDOGE is currently the sixth biggest meme coin in terms of market capitalisation, just behind FLOKI.

Latest Baby Doge Coin News
