Most people decide to buy it because its price is affordable, but also because there are good plans in the future, you can expect to make huge profits. If you want to know how to invest the best DeFi currency, here is our first choice. There are relevant information you should know

1. Lucky block

We think lucky block is your best choice in 2022 because it is about to launch a lottery game platform, which shows that players are the most important by achieving greater profits. Due to the existence of smart contract, lucky block is independent and not subject to any form of manipulation.

All players can be sure that the results of the lottery are legal and completely random. In addition, it is worth mentioning that players from all over the world can play this game wherever they are. When it comes to its value, its price is $0.00015, but its price has risen rapidly. At present, it is $0.005161. The price forecast for 2025 is US $0.033, which is why now is a good time for investment, and the price is low and affordable.

2. DeFicoins

Recently, a kind of DeFi coin has become more and more popular, that is, DEFC. DEFC stands for DeFi coin, which is a digital token. It represents both the DeFi exchange and the website. Swap exchanges allow sellers and buyers to exchange directly without other participants. One of the reasons why investors began to pay more attention to it is its price, which makes it easier to invest. Its initial price was $0.035, but things began to develop rapidly in a good direction, and its current value is $0.1062339.

Experts familiar with the cryptocurrency market believe that the value of DEFC will rise steadily and reach US $1 soon, which is quite optimistic and encouraging for investors who have just started an exciting journey of cryptocurrency. However, this is not all. One of the biggest advantages for the holders of the DeFi coin token is the opportunity to obtain dividends through the static reward system. In addition, there is a combustion plan that has been launched, which means that the supply is slowly decreasing. The decrease in the number of coins on the market means exclusivity, which increases the value of coins, because demand and supply change the market and make its value rise quite fast.

In order to protect the supply and control of coins, the further circulation of coins will be controlled by manual combustion strategy. If you decide to buy it and see for yourself what it can bring you, you should know it's available on pancakeswap, but you can also redeem it on DeFi swap. The best thing is that if you lose your way in the process, there is a DeFi swap forum where you can exchange views with other members and get the help and support you need.

3. Uniswap

Uniswap is on our list because this exchange offers a leading DeFi currency called Uni. Uniswap is a project with the main goal of decentralized finance. The exchange takes place point-to-point, which means that it is completed through this platform without the participation of a centralized party. Uni was launched two years ago, when it was worth $7. Now, two years later, it's worth $10 more - an impressive $17.

As far as the main price forecasts are concerned, there are some quite optimistic forecasts, and its value will rise to $63.50 within three years. This is a relatively short time for such a price rise, which is why we put it on our list.

4. Decentraland

Decentraland is expected to become very popular in the next few years. The original digital assets are MANA tokens, which are likely to grow in the next few years. One of the things it offers players is that they can buy virtual land by using tokens. Therefore, they can also build virtual real estate. After completion, it can be sold in the market. Although it may seem like a game, we have seen millions of dollars exchanged and earned in the form of tokens. Four years ago, it was worth $0.025, but last year it was worth nearly $6, a huge increase in a relatively short period of time. Artists see Decentraland as an opportunity to create galleries and sell unforgeable tokens, and sell their works of art online. There is also a virtual real estate store on Decentraland. People who want to see buyers and sellers will meet their avatars, and there are also virtual meetings to choose from. This is an interesting new era market. People can use metadata space to participate, but they can also exchange money.

5. Yearn. The finance DeFi service looks promising

The reason we put this project on the list is that it specializes in decentralized financial services. It mainly focuses on point-to-point loans. This means that there is no centralized entity as an intermediary, but direct communication between lenders and borrowers. Smart contract technology enables consumers to obtain loans without a credit check process.

Of course, there is a DeFi coin called YFI. It was launched two years ago with an initial price of $907. The highest price it reached was $93000. One of the reasons this DeFi coin is interesting is its limited number, with only 36000 tokens to choose from.

These are the best DeFi coins you can invest this year. To help you, we have prepared a guide for you so that you can easily find your own direction.
