- Potentially, by the end of 2023, the price of FTX could have surged to $2.89.
- By 2030's close, the price of FTT may have risen to $12.58.

The preceding year was the most prosperous one for alternative cryptocurrencies. Because most of them have done better than Bitcoin, the most popular asset. The FTX token was one such asset whose price surged dramatically in Q1 and shocked the cryptocurrency market.

The FTX is a cryptocurrency derivatives exchange based on the ERC-20 token standard. It seeks to deliver institutional-grade solutions by offering futures, leveraged tokens, and Over Counter (OTC) trading.

What is FTX Token (FTT)?

FTX is a platform for trading crypto derivatives and has its own token, FTT. The token can be used as security in futures trading, as well as for receiving refunds on OTC trade fees and commissions.

The platform eliminates the existing challenges related with futures trading. On other marketplace exchanges, the collateral is spread out between many token wallets. However, FTX derivatives are stablecoin-settled and need merely a universal margin wallet to limit future positions from becoming liquidated.

Leveraged tokens are another fascinating aspect of the platform, as they allow investors to fund leveraged positions without engaging in margin trading. Let's use an example. If the consumer desires 5x leverage when shorting ethereum data. They need to visit FTX to acquire a short Ethereum token with a leverage factor of 5.

FTX Token (FTT) Price History

FTX Token has propelled it to the forefront of emerging technologies. This cutting-edge technology has successfully shattered the mold of traditional market exchanges. The native currency of FTX Token, FTT, is traded on many exchanges by millions of people throughout the world, although it has not yet established itself as a major investment currency.

Back in August of 2019, the FTX token had a value of $1.7 on the cryptocurrency market. Throughout its first few months of trading, the token's value was consistently below its initial issuance price of $1.7. Nonetheless, the token surpassed the $1.7 threshold at the start of December 2019, and it is expected to continue trading on an upward trend and reach $5.8 by the end of December 2020.

In 2021, FTX was the center of attention, and investors began to purchase the token, driving up its demand and price. Thus, in September 2021, the token created its ATH, which is $79.53, after which the price started to correct owing to profit booking. At this point, the future of the FTT token became uncertain.

FTT's price continued to fall, crashing through each successive support level. Within a year, FTX's price dropped below its introductory level. The cost was $0.84 in that year's December. 2023 has offered some optimism for the FTT investors as the price recovered considerably in just 5 months.

【 【The MACD's green, ascending histogram indicates that the coin's price is currently seeing tremendous ongoing price activity. Furthermore, the averages exhibit a rising trend, indicating that the price will likely keep growing in the near future.

If buyers can push the price above $2.413, it will continue to rise and eventually reach the $2.50 level of resistance. In addition, if the market keeps the price there, it will get ready to test its resistance level of $2.75 in the near future.

If bears prevail over bulls, however, the price will lose steam and drop below $2.072 as support. In addition, if bears remain in control of the market, this month might see a test of the $1.683 support level.

FTX Token (FTT) Price Prediction 2023

Inflation worries may continue to affect the market for the next two years, making this a difficult year. The FTT price will be safe from sellers as long as it continues to receive appropriate upgrades in line with the trend. There was a temporary increase in pricing following the announcement of the FTX 2.0 release.

With the fear of volatility factored in, the asset's price might reach $2.89 at its extreme. If bears continue to plague the rally, however, the altcoin's price will eventually settle at a minimum of $1.16. If trading activity is evenly distributed, the average price might settle at $2.025.

FTX Token (FTT) Price Prediction 2024

If the FTX token's development team uses community outreach and educational programs, the token could become successful. In the year 2024, when Bitcoin's halving event is also expected to occur, the alternative cryptocurrency may reach new heights. The predicted FTT price, in this scenario, might surge to its maximum of $3.99.

However, declining popularity and increased competition may bring the price down to $2.87. However, the lack of driving initiatives may keep the mean price down to $3.43.
