What Is Helium Mobile (MOBILE)?

The Helium network is decentralised and powered by cryptocurrency. Helium Mobile is a mobile phone service that uses this network. With this network's token incentive system, anyone can build and run their own mobile network. In terms of both size and rate of growth, this wireless network is unparalleled in the annals of the planet.

Helium Mobile is certain in its capacity to provide trustworthy cellular phone services due to its foundation on the Solana blockchain and utilisation of T-Mobile's robust 5G infrastructure.

You can provide your neighbourhood with wireless network coverage for low-power "Internet of Things" or cellular devices and earn Helium tokens at the same time by setting up a Helium Hotspot at your home, office, or other location.

If you can cover millions of devices over miles of wireless network using two different technologies (LoRaWAN and cellular), you will be compensated with Helium tokens. With a power consumption of only 5W, LoRaWAN hotspots are extremely efficient in terms of energy usage.
